

After graduating from West Virginia Wesleyan as an art major, von Hoorn taught art for 24 years at Torrington High School in Connecticut. During that time he pursued many art ventures ranging from restoring church murals to decorating the side of a paddle wheel boat, to winning prizes for teeshirt designs, posters, ice sculptures and logo designs. He enjoys creating works in oil, collage and construction media. Now retired, he lives on the Pettiford Creek in Cape Carteret, North Carolina with his wife, artist Ann DeLorier vonHoorn, and their mini-poodle.
